INTRODUCTION TO THE ORTON-GILLINGHAM APPROACH

PK Sanieski, Fellow/AOGPE, Susan Santora, Fellow/AOGPE

FEE: $1800. (includes: The Gillingham Manual and all materials)

Each offering is a 30-hour course introducing the Orton-Gillingham Approach to teaching reading, writing, and spelling. The Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators (AOGPE) has accredited Learning House for our teacher training courses and the instruction we provide to students throughout the year. This introductory course will cover the rationale for using the Orton-Gillingham Approach, the principles of instruction, the development of a lesson plan, knowledge of the English language and activities and teaching materials to develop evidence based instruction. The Gillingham Manual is used as a resource.

The Academy of Orton-Gillingham Practitioners and Educators is the only organization established and authorized to set standards, certify persons, and accredit programs for Orton-Gillingham practice. The Learning House course meets the requirements for Subscriber, the first level of membership in the Academy, and part of the course requirements for Classroom Educator or Associate level certification. It is the first step to becoming a fully trained Orton-Gillingham practitioner. There are additional requirements and a formal application process that must be successfully completed over time in order to apply to the Academy for Membership. The Learning House 30-hour introduction will not allow you to represent yourself as a trained OG practitioner. The Academy's requirements are available at www.ortonacademy.org, and will be discussed further during the introductory course. Upon successful completion of this introduction, additional course work and a practicum are available at Learning House for an additional fee for those who wish to continue training to complete the Academy's Associate or Classroom Educator Level training requirements.
